

CEf21

Cultural Economics and Finance Conference

NEW DATE: 5–7 November 2021 in Trier, Germany

Cultural differences and their impact on economics and finance are a topic of growing importance in our globalized world. After the successful first conference in 2020, the CEf21 will again bring together internationally leading researchers to present the most recent results in this field.

Topics include:

- Cultural differences in economic and financial preferences, on financial markets
- Transmission of cultural norms and transitions of economic decision making
- Cultural dimensions and their impact on social institutions and law.

Keynote Lectures:

Meir Statman

Santa Clara University, USA

Conference venue:

Hotel "Deutscher Hof", Trier, Germany, situated directly at the historic city center of Trier.

Welcome reception at the University of Trier, Campus I.

Trier is the oldest city in Germany and has several UNESCO World heritage sites. It is easily accessible via the nearby international airport of Luxembourg.

Conference home page, submissions and registrations: cef.uni-trier.de

Conference fee: The conference is free of charge. Conference dinner is not included.

Important Dates:

- Deadline for submission of papers or extended abstracts (PDF): August 31, 2021
- Notification of acceptance: September 15, 2021
- Conference registration deadline: October 15, 2021

Main organizers:

Prof. Thorsten Hens,
University of Zurich and NHH Bergen

Prof. Marc Oliver Rieger,
University of Trier

Local organizers:

Dr. Lea Shih, University of Trier
Eugenia Bartel, University of Trier

Pictures: Lothar Spurzem

Cultures in Transitions
in East Asia and Europe

Research cluster at the University of Trier

University of Zurich^{UZH}