In order to prepare our law students for the increasing global aspects of professional life the Trier University Law School has introduced since 1989 a large International Legal Studies Program. Currently we are looking for our Anglo-American Law section for a

Lecturer (2-6 hours per week /early morning or evening classes possible)

to teach the following First Year course: English Legal System.

As we have very often open positions please contact us as well if you wish to teach another course. The language of the lectures is English, so we are looking for a native speaker who holds a law degree from a common law jurisdiction. You do not need to speak German.

We are flexible in organising course hours early in the morning or in the evening if this is more convenient for you.

For more information or if you wish to send your CV please contact: Dr. Ute Goergen; Head of International Legal Studies, University of Trier Law School, email: goergenu@uni-trier.de
